

The Faith and Sexuality weekend for middle schoolers and high schoolers will be held at St. Andrew January 27-28. The cost is $25 per youth, maximum $50 per family; scholarships available by contacting the youth office. Each youth will be part of a family group with youth of a similar age and two adult leaders. Leaders will take part in a training event prior to the weekend. Leaders will include Cindy Klick and Gabe Horton, youth directors at St. Andrew, and several trained volunteers. A special parent session (no charge) will be held Saturday morning at St. Andrew, with facilitators Jenny Ricklefs and Chris Berg. The weekend ends with parents and their youth's family group leaders meeting together Saturday afternoon.

Goals

- ⇒ To give youth a secure place to talk about their sexuality and faith
- ⇒ To help youth find trustworthy adults as they deal with issues
- ⇒ To help youth understand sexuality as a good gift from God, intended to be fully expressed within the bounds of marriage
- ⇒ To help parents grow in understanding of sexuality as a gift from God and give them the tools to discuss difficult topics with their youth
- ⇒ To act as a catalyst for parent-youth discussion on sexuality and faith
- ⇒ To provide a faith basis for understanding sexuality in a world that abounds with mixed messages and blatant sexuality in the media.
